Sambandh Finserv: Uplifting the Life of Underprivileged Women

Bhubaneswar: The success story of a small-scale pottery maker Lilabati Rana, a 36-year-old woman living in Badpatrapali, a small village situated on the outskirts of the Sundargarh district of Odisha is a true testament of the fact that hard work, coupled with skills has the power to change one’s destiny.

Having an only hand to mouth resources, Lilabati and her family of five, comprising of her husband, two children, and an old mother-in-law were going through a tough phase of a financial crisis. They had to face hardships to even purchase raw materials for their existing pottery business which further affected their children’s education.

She was losing all her hopes to live a better life when one day she stumbled across Sambandh Finserv, and her life took a new turn. Lilabati became a member of Sambandh Finserv which provides financial services to economically backward sections of the society residing in the rural settings who often find it difficult to avail credit through other organized financial institutions.

In March 2018, she availed her first loan of Rs.25000 to expand her existing pottery business. Support from Sambandh in their hour of need, significantly helped Lilabati to gradually improve her family’s financial condition.

Lilabati is now leading a financially stable life. She has expanded her pottery business and even providing good education to her children. Lilabati has been associated with SambandhFinserv for two years and recommends other women entrepreneurs to join Sambandh.
